

"TALL, DARK MAN" TURNS OUT TO BE A SMALL, LIGHT ONE

testified that he came to the Stokes house in West 78th Street on Dec. 10, 1919. He and a young lady who was at Miss Gardner's finishing school went with Mrs. Stokes and several others to the Ritz to dance. After the younger people had been taken home in Mrs. Stokes's car, the witness said that he and Mrs. Stokes returned at once to the latter's home, where he was to spend the night. Often had he spent the night there, he said, sharing Mr. Stokes's room.

Q. (By Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Mrs. Stokes.) What did you do when you reached the Stokes's home? A. We arrived there about 12:30 o'clock and separated at the front door. Mrs. Stokes went upstairs and I went to the kitchen where the cook had prepared a little supper for me, some chocolate cake. Afterward I went up to Mr. Stokes's room and slept the night there. I did not see Mrs. Stokes till next morning.

Brown emphasized the intimacy he enjoyed in the Stokes household owing to his friendship with Victor Miller.

On cross-examination he declared that there was no "tall, dark man" in the Stokes house on Dec. 10 or on Dec. 11, the two days in that month he spent there.

W. E. D. Stokes, who is said to be ill with pleurisy, was absent from the trial again to-day. As soon as he is well he is to be called to the stand by Mr. Littleton, who said to-day he thought this examination would require about two days. Justice Finch asked whether it was desired to take the plaintiff's testimony at his bedside, but Mr. Littleton declined to consider this. It was the desire of the court that the case be carried ahead as far as possible and then, if necessary, have an adjournment till Mr. Stokes should be well enough to take the witness stand.

Gertrude Stammbach, who had a gift shop on the street floor of No. 13 East 35th Street (in which house Edgar T. Wallace, one of the co-respondents, had an apartment), for two years, from March 1, 1918, was the first witness called to-day. She was put on the stand to show, by rent receipts from the agent of the building, that at the time Agricola Byers, a colored waitress, swore she took food for two from Miss Dunn's tearoom to Wallace's apartment, the tearoom had been abandoned and the premises were then occupied by Miss Stammbach's gift shop.

The second witness was Dr. Edward Wallace Lee, a physician of No. 616 Madison Avenue. He, according to the testimony of Mrs. Genevieve de Anquinos, one of Stokes's witnesses in the trial, had examined her physically in the matter of a suit she brought against Mailland's for alleged illness and loss of her baby occasioned by bad food in the restaurant.

To Dr. Lee she had said that she was at that time, Aug. 30, 1920, engaged in "special research work" for W. E. D. Stokes.

Q. Did she say what kind of work that was? A. Yes, that it was in regard to his divorce suit.

Bernard H. Sandler, attorney for Henry Williams, the negro acquitted of the charge of stealing $30,000 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Helen Edwood Stokes, proved to be an unwilling witness when put on the stand this afternoon.

He pleaded privilege in behalf of Williams when pressed by Mr. Littleton for answers to questions tending to show that W. E. D. Stokes had sought to drag the alleged conduct of his wife into the larceny case.

Sandler said he had seen a number of negro women in reference to the charge against Williams. Some of them have already appeared as witnesses for Stokes in the divorce action.

Q. Did Mr. Stokes send some witness to see you? A. I decline to answer.

Q. Did Mr. Stokes furnish you with any information in the Williams case? A. He or some of his witnesses.

The witness refused to disclose what Stokes had said to him and Mr. Littleton called the attention of the court to the lawyer's unfriendliness to his side of the case. But Justice Finch said he was disinclined to force Mr. Sandler's hand in the matter, directing the questioning to proceed.
